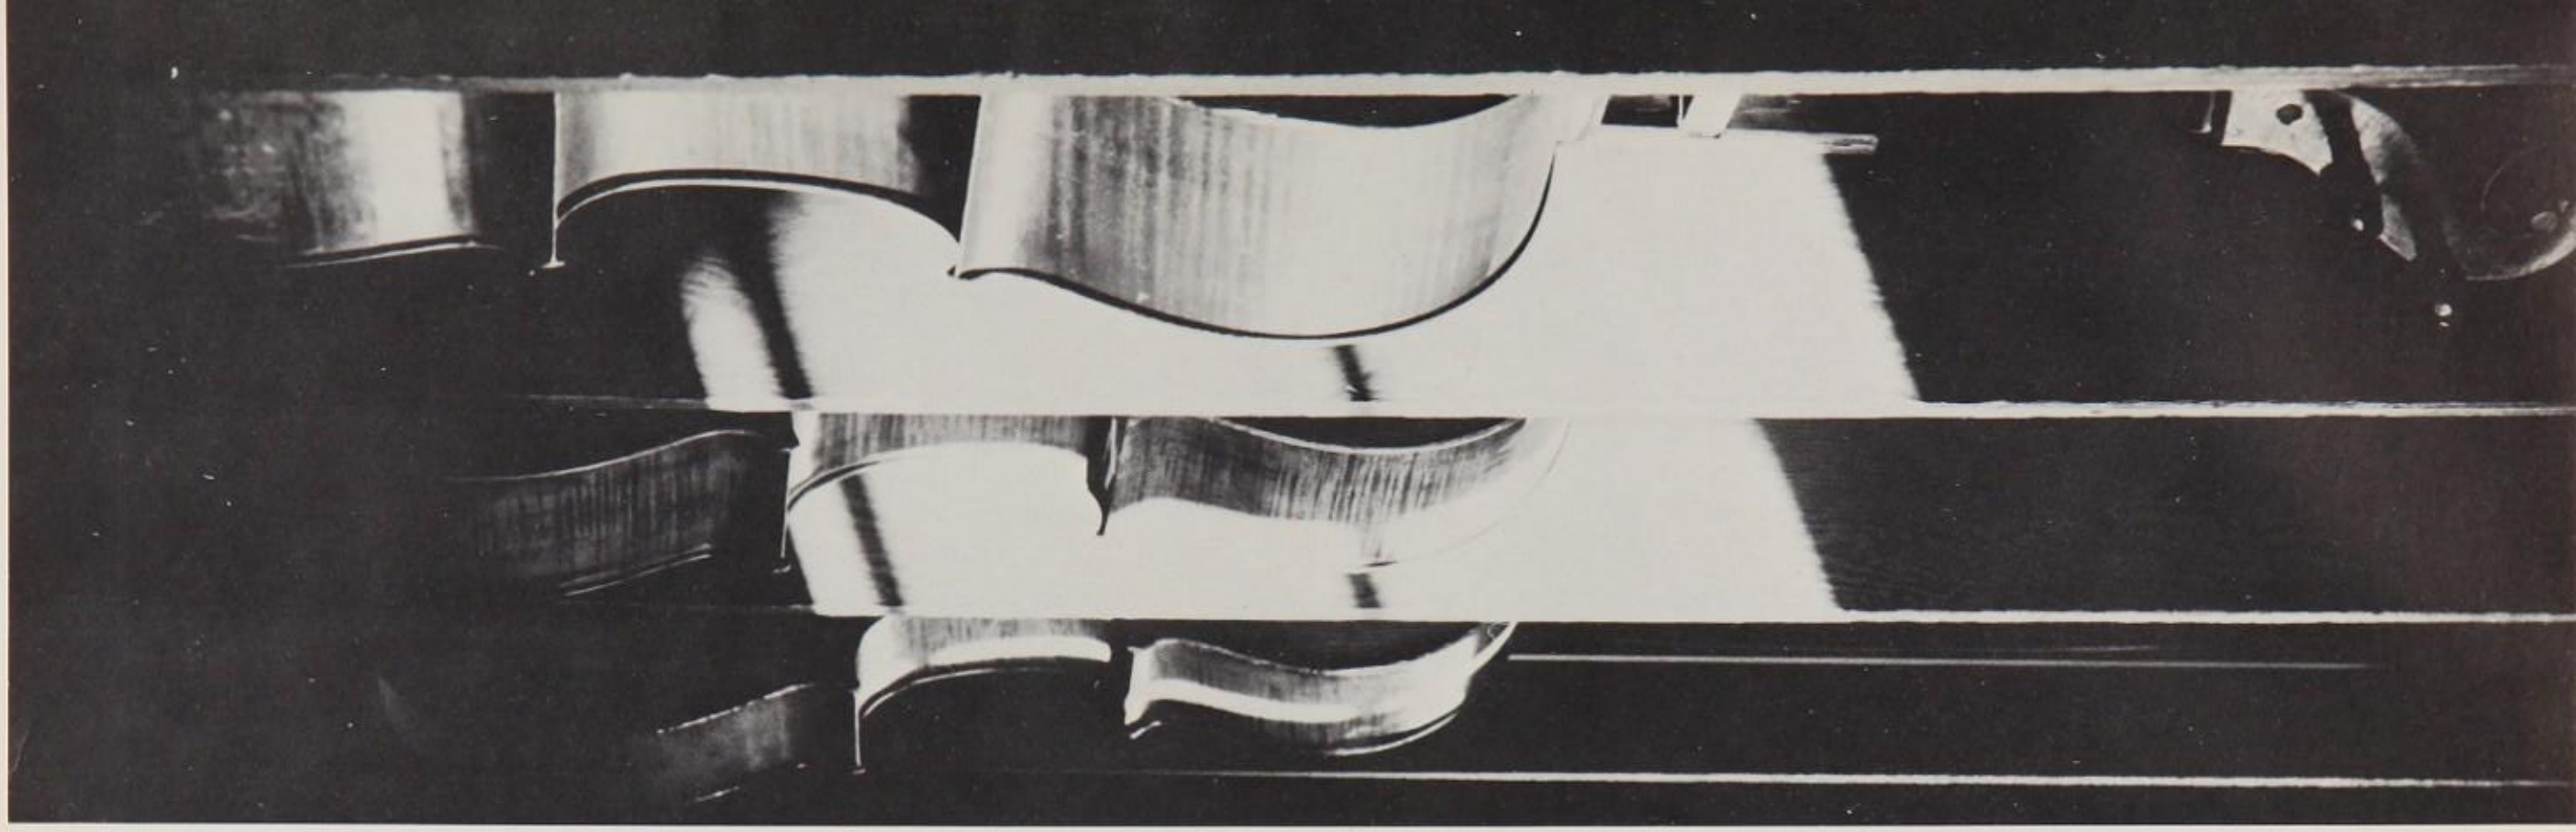
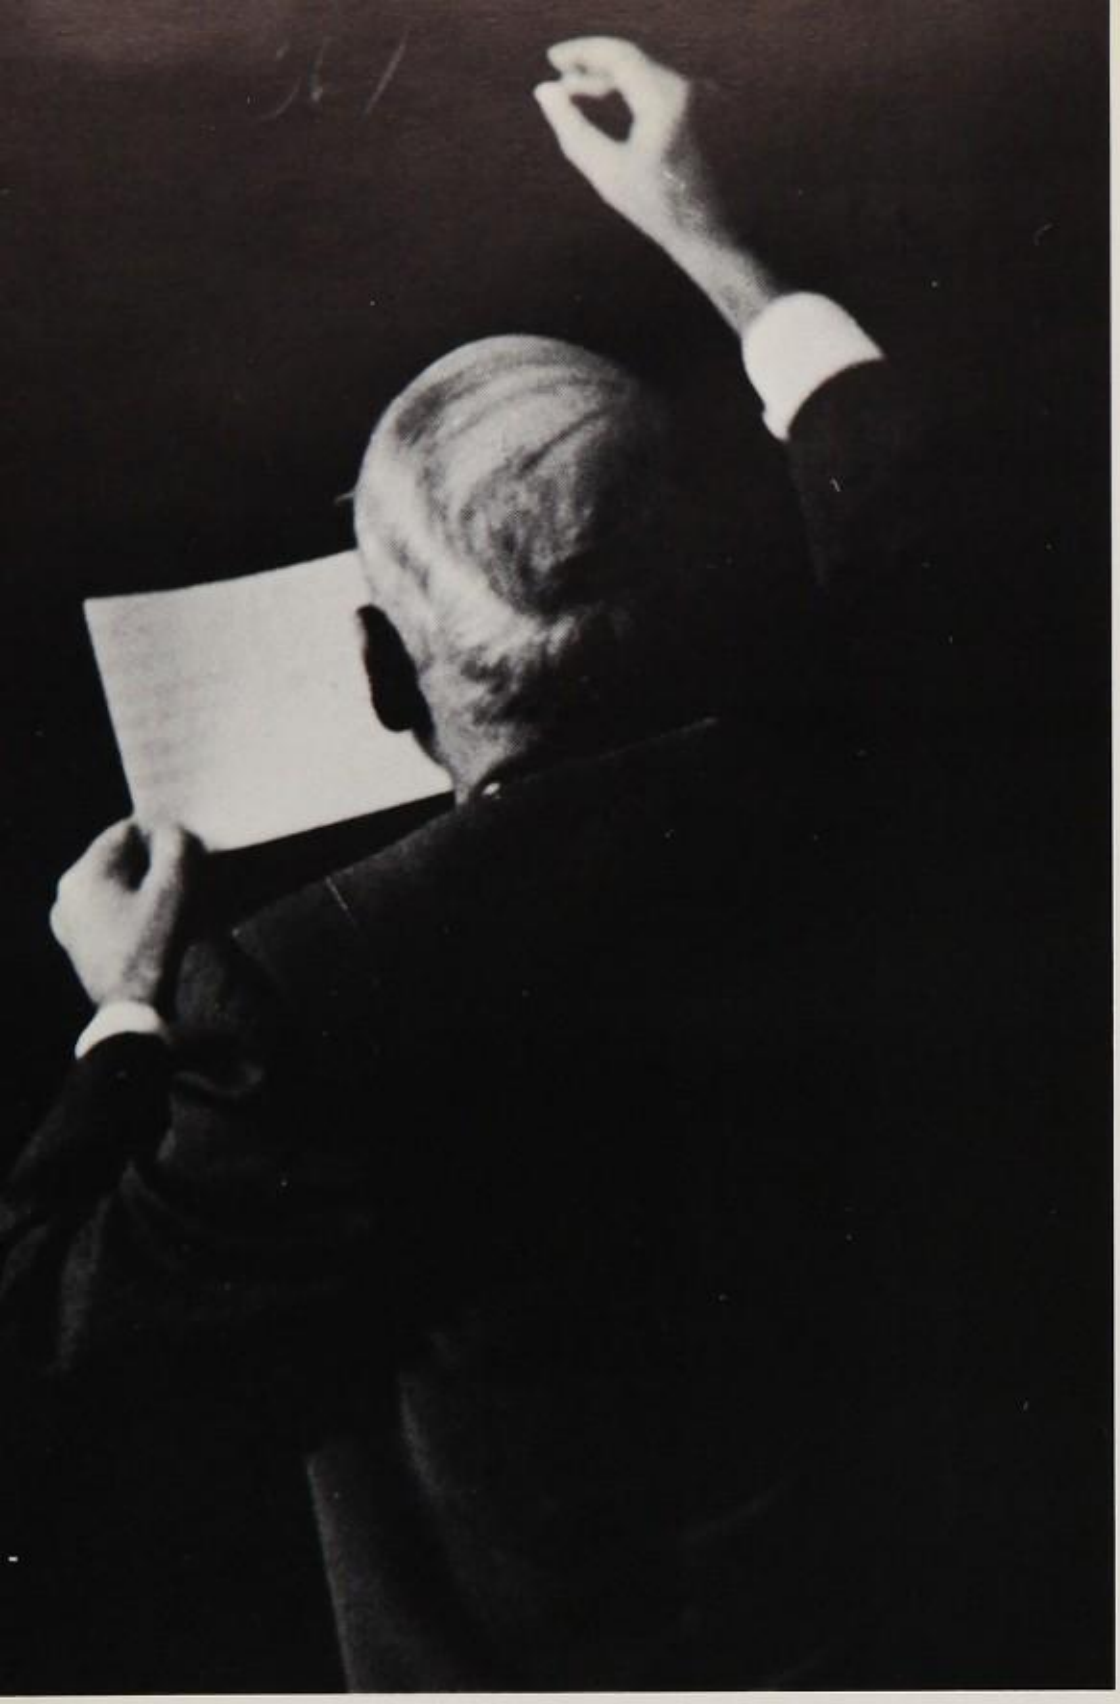
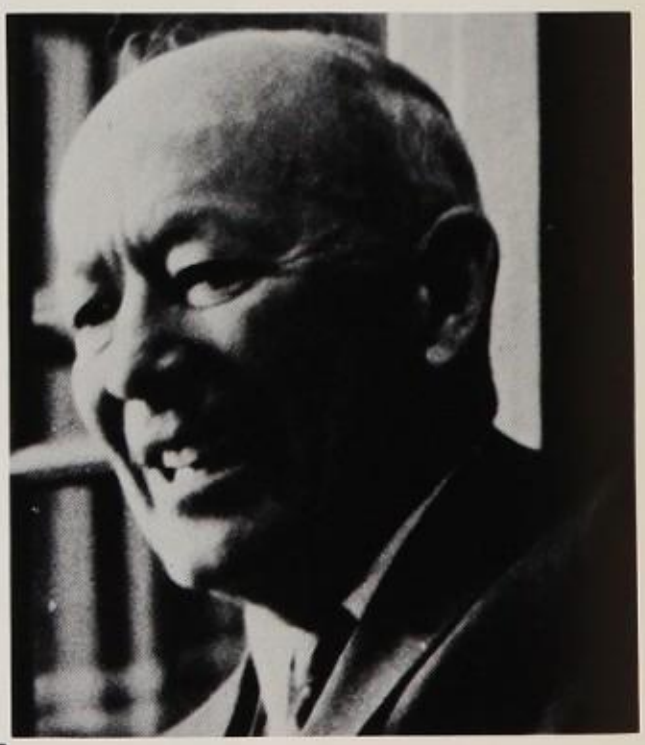
PROLOGUE

pause a moment. look about you. notice the delicate patches of sunlight on the floor, the bold symmetry of the bricks in the wall. there are many such patterns at scarsdale high school. leaves make lacy outlines against the sky. cars leave parallel patterns in snow. mornings pass into evenings, and days into months, with comforting regularity. as opened eyes precede opened minds, so an awareness of these simple patterns leads to the discovery of others more complex. a millenium of development has resulted in our existence. the repetitious cycles of history and economics offer a guidebook for the future. each of us must decide what pattern his life will follow. horizons open to those conscious of patterns.







DEDICATION

we are fond of you for your gentle manner, your warm friendliness, your frequent smile.

we respect you for your brilliant mind, your abundant knowledge, your lucid demonstrations.

we honor you for the sun you bring to our days, and the flame you light in our minds.

because of this affection, this respect, and this high regard, we dedicate bandersnatch 1962 to you, MR. PRATT.

FACULTY

teachers in every department make us aware of patterns that exist in our program of learning. the members of the english department teach proper paragraph and theme organization, and outline the construction of plays, short stories, and novels. history teachers trace the incoming tide of progress, the birth and growth of philosophies and revolutionary ideas, the rise and fall of rulers, governments, and civilizations. scarsdale's biology instructors stress the similarity of all living matter. chemistry teachers work with an ordered succession of elements. physics teachers demonstrate the interrelation of the laws of nature. mathematics instructors confront the student with increasingly complex material in a pattern that starts with elementary algebra and ends with the calculus. foreign language department members describe the structures of other languages and the customs of other cultures.

although students attend scarsdale high only four years, teachers often work here much longer. they are nearly a constant factor, and can readily discern trends in such areas as social behavior and intellectual curiosity. teachers also may watch the growth of a class, and influence the development of its individuals. the faculty thus imparts, observes, and molds patterns at scarsdale.

SENIORS

the pattern of senior class experiences at scarsdale changes little from one year to the next. election of g.o. and class officers in the spring of the junior year always provokes preliminary consideration and evaluation by the soon-to-be-senior class. the tea dance provides an initial opportunity for each succeeding class to work together. each fall the top-dog-at-last feeling straightens another class's back. every year, work day joins seniors in the common cause of providing for exchange students. source themes present their dreaded challenge to every class in turn. each class knows the tedium of filling out college applications; the ensuing waiting, worrying, hoping; the dispair, and the final elation. the succession of slowly dragging minutes and quickly passing years leads always to class day. commencement, the prom, and jones beach complete the pattern.

although the class of 1962 has followed this pattern, it is nonetheless original. for, as every class is generally similar, so each one is specifically individual. no other senior class has ever held, nor will ever hold, the memories that we do: memories that make our class unique.

junior year was one of increased status, privilege, worry, and work. the respect accorded us as juniors boosted our egos. driving to school was a convenience, even if we did have to park in the snow and mud of brewster road. the specter of college admission assumed a menacing position above our heads. after the psats initiated us in october to college boards, the approach of that may saturday with the real thing filled us with dread.

schoolwork became a major concern. plumbing ethan frome, the red badge of courage, the mayor of casterbridge, and macbeth occupied us in english. intermediate algebra kept math students hard at work. there was a world of world history. we sympathized with jean valjean, and joined cicero in denouncing cataline. in health, our pleas for co-ed, mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration came to no avail. we tolerated driver education for its pot of gold at the end—an m.v. card.

our prominence in extra-curricular activities increased also. wrinkie jacobi, bob sawicky, and ray henley strengthened the raider eleven. gordie hay, al madison, and tom pretzfeld were instrumental in the soccer team's victory. doug blair and joe rodriguez were stalwarts on the cross-country team. steve lazare started consistently on the basketball team, and chip clark was a varsity wrestler. the spring sports also had sizable junior contingents.

dick kunreuther, steve peiser, gail waters, and peter weil were selected to participate in the all-state music festival at buffalo. jo-ellen diamond directed tivoli gardens, which starred juniors erica christiani and peter ebenstein. anna markus gave much effort to bandy. poetry by gretchen smith appeared in jabby. peter aron, margaret byer, alex jack, and jim peterson held maroon editorships. signifer inducted eleven juniors into its ranks.

the g.o. campaign climaxed the year. homework was neglected as we met, debated, switched allegiance, painted, rehearsed, telephoned, cajoled, voted—all with an intense excitement that bordered on frenzy. the campaign sped to revelation, though none too fast for the exhausted candidates. our rivalries and hostilities dissolved election night at the traditional dance.

as the year progressed, we realized more and more that we would soon be seniors. this realization has swelled lately with the preparations for our tea dance, the arrival of our rings, and our first class outing. knowing the challenges and opportunities our senior year will present, we are impatient to proceed.

we entered school last september with a strident sophomore confidence, proud that we knew the ins and outs of high school life, and glad that we were no longer the runts of the herd.

knowing what to expect, we took this year's work in stride. in english, we probed silas marner, a tale of two cities, and julius caesar. triangles defied us to prove them congruent in geometry. latin scholars learned that julius caesar gaul into three parts divided. biology won all honors for providing traumatic experiences—inhaling formaldehyde, blood-letting (finger-pricking), and dissecting freshly-killed frogs.

sophomores gained distinction in battle. brian lucas, john fischer, and lou morris represented us on the varsity football team. doug kreeger, steve oppenheim, and dan schutzman contributed measurably to the championship soccer team. bob brandt ran varsity cross-country. we boasted of five sophomores on the varsity wrestling team: lucas, fischer, oppenheim, dick mc mahon, and ricky schaffer. our eight junior varsity cheerleaders led the rooting for the j.v. squads, which were predominantly composed of sophomores.

at the diary of anne frank we applauded enthusiastically for liza minelli, marty borgmann, and buffy thalheimer. all-county musicians rae nelle berlet, liz enkells, morris kliegman, lois kwitman, ruth lipman, ruth schechter, howard schwartzman, and scott wadler received our congratulations. bandy owes much to the work of anna hartog. maroon relied heavily on its sophomore reporters, and in january named twenty as sub-editors.

we have calmed down considerably this year. for one thing, we're older, more mature. the purchase of our first barron's and the subsequent cramming for our initial encounter with regents also sobered us. a third influence was the realization that after vacation we would be juniors, a single step from the responsibilities and anxiety of seniority.

the words, "high school freshmen," had a nice ring to them. we realized that we were beginning a new adventure, but we would have enjoyed it more if we had been able to find our way about. in the maze of all-too-similar corridors and staircases, our most frequent cry was, "where am i?" gradually, though, we discovered the most direct routes to our classes—and the cafeteria—, learned how to avoid the traffic jams, and settled down as fledgling students at s.h.s.

no doubt about it, the work was difficult. ivanhoe, the odyssey, and a midsummer nights dream kept us busy in english. punching holes in the kuder preferential record gave us sore thumbs for a week, but the vocational report we wrote in citizenship education was effort well invested. the geniuses among us were guinea pigs for an accelerated math course, mysteriously labeled 10-X.

charlie beall, bob ichord, and mike worthington led our ninth grade all-stars to a 2 and 2 record. dave bailey, joe breines, and van edwards boosted the j.v. soccer team, while don lackritz and steve lasser paced the freshman cross-country team. at the close of the season we attended our first high school dance, the olympian victory dance.

twenty-six freshmen were named to g.o. committees. mimi bresler and barbara salmanowitz represented us on the advisory committee.

during the winter months dave smith displayed excellent potential on the j.v. basketball squad, while julie korsmeyer, diana reuter, and jane werner sparked their intramural teams.

with spring, our efforts and emotions were directed towards baseball, track, and cheerleading tryouts, the g.o. elections, and, reluctantly, final exams. our freshman year has been a combination of fun and work. we're ready for the vacation, yet are eagerly anticipating our return to scarsdale high next fall as sophomores.

my pass, mr. pauff?

i dunno who's winning; i just came to watch the cheerleaders.

can't talk now! the comrades want these plans for tomorrow.

scarsdale students complete the pattern of a school day by engaging in a wide variety of extracurricular activities. each of these has its own patterns. more important, each contributes to our pattern of development. activities supplement the learning process and offer relaxation after long toil on required subjects. they provide experience in working with others, giving directions, and obeying orders. they give an opportunity to serve, express, and create. by stimulating our interests, activities at scarsdale often become our recreation or our occupation in adult life.

the general organization conducts under parliamentary procedure the business outlined on the agenda. while learning the essentials of democracy, representatives receive practical experience in public speaking. g.o. committees expose their members to various administrative tasks.

the band, orchestra, and choruses give musically-inclined students relaxation, enjoyment, and training as they play or sing notes arranged in unlimited patterns.

dramatic groups impart experience to budding theatrical talent, presenting portions of the pattern of life, divided into acts and scenes.

publications concern students contemplating a career in journalism with layouts and deadlines. these are patterned steps in the course that all material follows from submission to publication.

enough clubs, committees, and activities exist at scarsdale to satisfy every interest. the knowledge, experience, and friendships gained through participation add a dimension to the pattern of our lives.

SPORTS

sports further illustrate the wide existence of patterns at scarsdale high. sets of rules govern the play of every sport. these divide each contest into successions of quarters, periods, sets, and innings. as these progress, both teams may shift tactics, one striving to maintain its lead, the other gambling to catch up. ordered action is evident in a successful football play or a well-executed pinning combination. the lime etchings on each playing field determine its use. athletes are perhaps more aware of the cyclic nature of the seasons than others. the relative popularity of the sports is changing, as the young sports of soccer, wrestling, and lacrosse challenge the traditionally major sports for prestige, players, and spectators.

excitement and recognition reward the athlete at scarsdale. he startles a fall crowd to its feet. a reverberating roar of approval buffets the basketball marksman. the athlete notices and enjoys the deference accorded him by the student body. his raider jacket has a proud warmth.

nevertheless, these rewards of athletics do not compensate for the heavy toll of time and energy that a sport exacts from its participants. without a true enjoyment of the game, the hours, even years, spent practicing cannot be justified. without this, the dull exhaustion that makes an early bedtime imperative amounts to needless self-punishment. but with this enjoyment, minor injuries, so irksome in practice, vanish in the stress of competition. with it, the frustrations and failures cannot long depress. triumphs, though short-lived, uplift flagging spirits. a knowledge of the boisterous, tired clamor of victory and the reflective, tired silence of defeat adequately repay the athlete for his sacrifices.

THE DRIVER'S PRAYER

by Catharine Clark

Dear Lord, before I take my place today behind the wheel, Please let me come with humble heart before thy throne to kneel
And pray that I am fit to drive each busy thoroughfare,
And that I keep a watchful eye lest some small child be there.
And keep me thinking constantly about the Golden Rule,
When driving past the playground zones or by some busy school
Then when I stop to give someone his right to cross the street, Let me my brother's keeper be and spare a life that's sweet.
Please make me feel this car I drive, You gave me to enjoy,
And that its purpose is to save mankind but not destroy.

the death of mr. andrew crafts on april 19 tempered the school's pre-vacation spirit. both faculty and students were saddened to learn of mr. crafts' death. liked and respected by his associates, he was, as chairman of the mathematics department from 1950 to his hospitalization last summer, largely responsible for its present excellence. teaching, however, was his first love. his enthusiasm for his subject and his genuine affection for his pupils make him warmly remembered by the scarsdale students who, since 1934, have grown under his genial guidance.
